Mercy and Forgiveness

All that God looks for from us is the slightest opening and He forgives a multitude of sins. ... There were two brothers: they divided their father's goods between them and one stayed home, while the other went away to a foreign country, wasted all he had been given, and then could not bear the shame of his poverty. The son who went away represents those who fall after baptism. This is clear from the fact that he is called a son, since no one is called a son unless he is baptized. Also, he lived in his father's house and took a share of all his father's goods. Before baptism no one receives the Father's goods or enters upon the inheritance. We can therefore take all this as signifying the state of believers.

What does he say after falling into the depths of evil? I will return to my father. The reason the father let him go and did not prevent his departure for a foreign land was so that he might learn well by experience what good things are enjoyed by the one who stays at home. For when words would not convince us God often leaves us to learn from the things that happen to us. When the dissolute returned after going to a foreign country and finding out by experience what a great sin it is to leave the father's house, the father did not remember past injuries but welcomed him with open arms. Why? Because he was a father and not a judge. And there were dances and festivities and banquets and the whole house was full of joy and gladness.

Are you asking: "Is this what he gets for his wickedness?" Not for his wickedness, but for his return home; not for sin, but for repentance; not for evil, but for being converted. What is more, when the elder son was angry at this the father gently won him over, saying: You were always with me, but he was lost and has been found; he was dead and has come back to life. "When someone who was lost has to be saved," says the father, "it is not the time for passing judgment or making minute inquiries, but only for mercy and forgiveness."

The Sunday of the Prodigal Son

We can learn a lot from the Gospel of the Prodigal Son. Perhaps, one of the more important lessons is the necessity to reflect on how much we waste in our lives. Of course, there is the concept of money: we see no problem in spending so much on unnecessary things or things to make us feel better or superior to others, but when it comes to helping others or various ministries, we balk and withhold. However, do we ever consider how sinful it is to waste time?

A priest, for one of his funeral sermons, would talk about how each of us is given two dates: one we know, our birthday, and the other we do not know, which is the day we leave our earthly bodies. Between those dates is a dash, and that dash stands for everything that we accomplished and did in this life. And he would always ask those present to reflect on their own dashes, to assess where they are and what they are doing with their lives.

We are given a certain amount of time in this life. And it is our choice what to do with it. We have the lessons of the Gospel that instruct us on what we should be doing with such a valuable gift, but it is our choice in terms of whether we listen or not. The prodigal son wasted everything that his father gave him—including time—but once he realized the errors of his ways, he returned to his father, seeking forgiveness and embracing his father. We, too, have this opportunity to return to our Father. To recognize the errors of our ways. To see how much we have wasted in our lives: time, opportunities, money, feelings, and so much more! Each and every day is indeed a “present” that we receive in order to start anew and right the wrongs of yesterday, but do we take this opportunity? Do we value the chance to repent and change our ways? Or are we content to keep going down the path of wastefulness and destruction without giving a second thought to those around us or even to our own selves and souls?

It’s easy to say “could have,” “should have,” or “would have.” Wouldn’t it be better, though, to say these in the present tense? To be people of action and not look back—sometimes with regret—on things that we missed out on or did not participate in because we were either too busy or lazy? We can visit the elderly and sick. We can feed the hungry and poor. We can donate our time and talent and treasure. We can pray. We can seek forgiveness. All before it is too late!

This will be the strong reminder we receive in next Sunday’s Gospel. We don’t want to wait until we are facing our eternal judgment to realize the wastefulness that we allowed in our lives. Let us make the most of our “dash” and continue to grow in spirit and strength! Let us resolve to be like the prodigal son who, in recognizing the error of his ways, returns to his father humbly seeking forgiveness!

The Feast of the Encounter of Our Lord tomorrow

On February 2nd, we celebrate the Encounter of our Lord Jesus Christ with Simeon in the Temple. In this beautiful scene, the aged Simeon takes the Baby Jesus up in his arms and expresses his delight and joy to God in a brief prayer. The event occurred when Joseph and Mary brought the Child to the Temple to present Him the Lord, according to the law of Moses. The holy family had made its little pilgrimage from Bethlehem to Jerusalem, a distance of about five miles, to accomplish what was called the purification of Mary. This required the presentation of a lamb, or for those who were poor, of two pigeons. In addition, a gift of five shekels to the Temple was required as an acknowledgement of God's claim over the first born male of the household; the child was thus redeemed from sacred duties to enter the secular life. Taking Jesus into his arms was an act of will by Simeon. The Spirit had prepared him to meet Jesus at the correct moment and had providentially brought them together. Simeon was driven under the impulse of the Spirit to hurry into the Temple, and when he was confronted with the Christ Child, he accepted Him into his arms immediately overlooking the poverty, the humility, or the apparent insignificance of the family. The impulse of the Spirit told him this was to be his only opportunity to see Christ. Join us for the holyday this Monday, February 2nd at 6:00 p.m.

The Solemn Blessing of Candles on Monday

On February 2nd, candles are blessed. The blessing of candles is our profession that we have seen the true Light Jesus Christ. We have encountered Him and allowed Him into our lives by our faith in Him and by our worship of Him which stems from faith. The prayer for the blessing asks Christ to bless the candles that they may be lit with a visible flame to dispel darkness, and that our hearts enlightened by the invisible light of the Holy Spirit.
